Methyl and methylbenzyl analogues of the previously reported 2,4-dihydro-5-nitropyridine-6-thione, 2-alkyl/benzyl-5-nitro-2,4-dihydro-6-oxopyridazine derivatives were synthesized and tested against bacteria (microorganisms), viruses and protozoa. A comparative study with 2-alkyl/benzyl-5-nitro-6-oxopyridazines was also carried out. Structure-activity relationships show that the presence of a halogen in the 2-position exerts a cytotoxic effect against all microorganisms tested but particularly against bacteria. Owing to the higher lipophilicity of the latter, the corresponding 2-benzyl-5-nitro-2,4-dihydro-6-oxopyridazines are more potent. Compounds 6b, 6b', 6i and 6i' exhibit a broad spectrum of activity, while 6f and 6f' show an interesting potent activity against Mycobacterium tuberculosis. UNPUBLISHED
