This is what I was talking about yesterday. This is what must be done. Tightened up. Did not like. I must do it. Let me explain. As you learned in the previous lessons, there are two different types of memory: muscle memory and brain memory. Muscle memory is something that a person simply knows and does not waste time thinking. For example, you can shake hands with another person without thinking about how you do it; you know how it's done.
