Click on "import" button. if there's a dvd rip to watch, a dvd to burn, or a game to play, it's time for the next project. I guess that's why I love to be in the kitchen, because I love the cooking part, but even if it's just the taste of the soup you made, it's great. I can see how this is becoming a distraction, but I don't want to let it. I'm making a song for my girlfriend's birthday. I started with some rudimentary chords and we wrote a basic melody. Now I'm trying to figure out if I can hook her up with some lyrics to make this pretty special for her. This is probably what started the whole "dating" thing. If I can get a record deal for this, I'd be playing to her for the rest of our lives. This is another song that's going to be a separate project. I'm going to try to make it catchy and hooky. I've been listening to the radio lately, and I'm noticing that everyone seems to have a song about being a proud parent. "The Closer I Get to You," "I Will Always Love You," "It's in Her Eyes," "Believe," "One Last Time," "A Little Love Can Be a Dangerous Thing," etc. etc. It's like they're just waiting for the songs to come to them. So I figure, if I can make my own song about being a parent, then I'll have one for any occasion. I'm listening to a lot of ZZ Top lately, so I'm working on my Riffs with a ZZ Top sound. So all in all, I'm pretty happy with my songwriting progress. I've got a few songs done that are good enough for me to show them to someone else. But I still need to finish the ones that are holding me back from releasing them. I'd like to have a game plan for music release, but as of now, I'm pretty much "
