How to Train Your Dog to Stop Digging 'Beware!' a warning sign is posted in one of these homes, but not before my cat's paw got in a hole. Now she's buried under a mountain of new carpet, so I'm looking for a way to get her out without tearing the house apart. Check out this article for some advice on training your dog to stop digging. Since she's ten years old, I was hoping she might have gotten the message. Over the years, many of the animals that lived in our house had an interest in digging — the parakeet who had a custom-built lair, the dachshunds, the basset hound, even the cat who liked to take himself out of the house to "smell the grass" and ignore the other critters who needed a place to be. But this is not the case with Buddy and Two, my two Great Danes. So I need to come up with a strategy to manage this behavior. Right now, after Buddy and Two go outside, I find a big hole in my backyard where they have a habit of digging. I guess that's what I get for buying a house with a big backyard. It has been an ongoing battle, and my lawn looks like a construction site. Anyway, after Buddy and Two go outside, I find a big hole in my backyard where they have a habit of digging.
