“The addition of HyperMotion Technology will add a new dimension to The Journey,” said Peter Moore, Senior Vice President of Marketing, Sports Marketing Division, Electronic Arts. “With our continued investment in all of our major franchises, we are also investing in deeper intelligence around our key product IPs and key sports to create superior gameplay experiences for gamers.” HyperMotion Technology HyperMotion Technology simulates the motion of players using a combination of artificial intelligence, physics, and player data collected during real-world gameplay. This data is captured via motion capture suits worn by players during a real football match. The technology improves player response times by capturing instantaneous movement of players and delivering this data to the game engine for immediate processing. This results in more responsive, intelligent gameplay while also improving player runs and tackles on the ball and better reactions to on-ball challenges. During the livestream, EA will also show pre-rendered gameplay footage using the new tech – check back with GameSpot for more. Our first taste of FIFA 22 gameplay using HyperMotion Technology FIFA 20 introduced new animation technology, Rising Star, to make players more realistic. FIFA 22 adds HyperMotion Technology to this animation tech, with a big focus on improving player responsiveness. Modern football is about quick, dynamic, reactive moves and tackling. Players are constantly changing direction, making sudden movements, and tackling players while the ball is in the air. With players being intelligent with their control, speed, awareness and ability to read and anticipate play, FIFA 22 delivers all of that enhanced with HyperMotion Technology. The video above shows how we see it playing out in the FIFA 22 teaser trailer. Additional features include: FIFA 22 gives greater tactical control over the match with an all-new Seamless Season Experience. For the first time, seasons flow through the year and are not divided into a traditional calendar. This new experience provides greater realism and progression, and includes new finishing challenges, such as winning the prestigious Ballon d'Or, Intercontinental Cup and UEFA Champions League. FIFA 22 will also feature all-new year-round eSports competitions, with event updates occurring on a daily basis, including the new FUT Champions League. Players can compete in the new 4v4 Cup and Create a Club tournaments. Stay tuned for more content from the FIFA 20 Team EAST, including interviews with members of the studio and our review of the February 2017 update.

FIFA is the world's most popular sports videogame franchise. It has sold over 400 million copies worldwide and has been enjoyed by people of all ages and abilities, from young soccer fans to the most avid football (or soccer, as it's commonly known outside North America) enthusiasts. Every year EA Sports brings you the best football experience around with a new FIFA game. FIFA is not only one of the top selling videogame series of all time, but it's the world's most played sports videogame franchise. What's new in FIFA 22? FIFA 22 introduces core improvements that bring the game closer to the real thing. FIFA 22 introduces core improvements that bring the game closer to the real thing. Improved Control We've reimagined the way players control the ball with Pro Instinctive Player Intelligence and Virtual Intelligence, two systems that revolutionize player control in 3rd person, introducing more authentic ball touches and reactions. We've also completely redesigned the way the ball interacts with the pitch, how players accelerate the ball, and how players can interact with passes. The result is more realistic control on both offense and defense, all while introducing simple, intuitive controls that make the game accessible for players of all abilities. Improved Touch-screen Control The new Touch-screen controls combined with a revised Autofire system for aiming in mid air tackles lets you aim for any type of touch to make a shot or tackle. The system even keeps your finger on the screen while you're still moving around to create control in tight spaces. Revamped Free Kicks You can now shoot the ball directly from your kick, delivering even more creativity and control in free kicks and aerial shots. Revamped Passes We've reimagined how players control the ball, with a new Authentic Touch system, which lets you move your player body to control the direction of the pass. You can still hand the ball off, have players run out to a specific position, or pass through the opponent. You can also change the rhythm of the pass to fit your situation. We've also made passing even more realistic by allowing players to run with the ball (like in real life) and also reducing the amount of touches required to deliver a ball. Revamped Player Movement We've reimagined how players run with the ball
